Allowable Subject Matter

2. Claims 3, 5, 6, 7, 8, 11 – 14, 16, and 18 – 24 are allowed.

3. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Independent claims 3, 7, 14, 16, 18, and 19 are directed to performing image correction in a printer on incoming black and white pixel data, thus detecting irregular patterns associated with the image and providing appropriate correction. Each of these claims identifies the uniquely distinct features of 'an image-quality corrector unit comprising a plurality of matrix patterns having larger sizes, using the matrix patterns in the order of larger sizes to detect isolated pixels, and distributing the isolated pixels to peripheral pixels according to the sizes of the matrix patterns used to detect the isolated pixels.' The closest prior art Seto et al. (US 5381522) teaches a printer for image correction including detecting and distributing isolated pixels, but not using specific orders of matrices to detect or correct. Thus, Seto et al. does not singularly or in combination with other art searched anticipate or render the above limitations obvious when used with other claim limitations.

Further, the combinations for image correction set forth in claims 7, 14, 18, and 19 also make the claims more specific, non-obvious, and novel over the prior art.

Also further, it is determined that substantially vertical vertical-line irregular patterns and substantially horizontal horizontal-line irregular patterns are not indefinite because they are the patterns defined by Figs. 31-38 as pointed out by applicant.
